Reading:

We had such a fun week dressing up for Homecoming. All the kids looked great. We also enjoyed the assembly today to help cheer on our Wildcats to victory. Hope to see you at the game tonight.

What a wild week. We finally made it to the 100th day of school. We spent all day today counting, finding numbers and writing about the number 100. Thank you to all the parents who volunteered to send in items for our snack. The counting was fun, BUT the eating was the best. YUM! We also learned that we graduate in the year 2022! Wow!

Our new word this week was "all." We read this word in some booklets that you should find in the Friday folder. Please have your child read these booklets to you. Snowmen have been a motivating way to practice our reading and writing skills.

Our treasure book is Snowballs by: Lois Ehlert. This is a short book about all the unusual things you can use to decorate snowmen. This book helps the children step outside the "normal" items you find on a snowman. Our treasure was a choice this week. Let your child tell you what their treasure is and why they picked it. Next week, our treasure story will be A Stranger In The Woods.

We will continue with our Snowman unit next week. We will also be talking about Groundhogs on February 2nd.

Math:

100! 100! 100!!!!!! These are the skills we worked on this week. Finding numbers randomly on a 100 chart is difficult for some of us. We are working on finding them quickly. We also have been working on writing our numbers on a chart. Please continue working on all the numbers up to 100 at home. The more knowledge the children have about ordering numbers, the more successful they will be in future grades.
